

What artist are promising for art investments?

Results from a data analysis of over 220,000 art pieces

On my data-driven “Artventure” of investing in art I started analysing data to gain insights about the art ecosystem. Therefore, I have been scraping data from a website called EspressoBeans, which is an art collector’s community maintained by volunteers. It is an excellent start for public available data about art pieces.

From the website I could get gather data from over 220,000 art pieces. The data contains variables li